Milimar" is believed to have been built by Henry Lazenby II, a descendant of a family which came to Maryland at the very beginning of the eighteenth century (1701) with a large land grant from Charles Calvert, the Third Lord Baltimore. The Lazenby family has been prominent in Maryland history from these early times until the present day. The first Henry Lazenby in America was High Sheriff of Anne Arundel County from 1720 until his death in 1723. His wife Margaret was an aunt of the then-governor of Maryland, another Charles Calvert.

Henry Lazenby II, the namesake of the above-mentioned High Sheriff, was the son of Robert Lazenby, one of the early settlers (before 1720) in the Layhill area of what is now the southeastern corner of Montgomery County, Maryland. In 1723, Robert bought a 217-acre tract called "Wolf's Den" from William Beall. Robert's younger son, Henry Lazenby II, was born in 1721. He enlisted in the Prince George's County militia in 1748. In 1760, he bought a 100-acre tract called "Girl's Gift" near his father's plantation. A family geneology records that he built, or at least began to build a house in the same year.

"Milimar" is one of the few extant eighteenth-century buildings in urban Montgomery County. Architecturally, it represents a style and a way of life which was present in the early history of the county, but which is now rapidly disappearing.
