The Marshall Hickmon Homestead is a one-and-one-half story, wood frame Craftsman residence. Its jerkin-head gables and pedimented front porch lend a picturesque aspect to a symmetrical, side gabled plan. A single square brick chimney rises through the roof on the northern side of the ridge, toward the eastern elevation. The roof material is composition shingles, the walls are clad in stucco, and the continuous foundation is cast concrete.

The northern or front elevation is composed of a gable roof front porch supported on four panelled, sloping wood columns and stone piers which intersects with the gable roof of the main house. The side gable central entrance beneath is symmetrically-flanked by two pair of six-over-one wood sash windows. The porch pediment is punctuated only by a central vertical, rectangular louvered vent, and the stone piers below are connected by stone walls. The raised concrete porch floor is accessed via two low side stairways. The eastern and western gable end elevations are similarly fenestrated and feature two pairs of six-over-one wood sash windows flanking a smaller central window of the same type on the first floor and a central pair above in the gable. The eastern elevation features a gable roof bay projecting from its southern end which leads to an entrance into the enclosed recessed rear porch. The southern elevation is fenestrated with windows and an entrance into that porch and is otherwise blank.

The main house is intact and unaltered except for the enclosed rear porch.

The Marshall Hickmon Homestead also includes three original or historic outbuildings: a grape-picking shed, a combination grain crib/tractor shed and a livestock barn.

Significance

Criterion C, local significance

The Marshall Hickmon Homestead (Part E, Historic Context #4) is the best example in Bradford of a one-and-one-half story, wood frame, side gabled Craftsman style residence. Constructed in 1933, this house is typical of the third period in the evolution of Craftsman style designs in White County. Its floor plan has become very regular and symmetrical and features only the vestiges of the irregularity of plan and elevation which was one of the hallmark features of this building style.

Reviewer's Comments

The boundaries of this property are presently located along building lines. A resource listed in the National Register should include all features of the property which contribute to its significance. In almost all cases this includes its historic setting. Page 77 of National Register Bulletin 16, Guidelines for Completing National Register of Historic Places Forms, states that "the boundaries of buildings should include the land surrounding the building, unless the lot occupied by the building contains no surrounding land as in the central business district of most cities."

Please revise the boundaries to include the property historically associated with the resource. If a portion of the original setting has lost its integrity, please explain.

Verbal Boundary Description:

Beginning at the point formed by the intersection the southern edge of State Highway 87 with a perpendicular line running parallel to the western elevation of the main house and located 50 feet to the west thereof, proceed southerly along said line for a distance of approximately 400 feet to the point formed by its intersection with a perpendicular line running parallel to the southern elevation of the associated barn; thence proceed easterly along said line for a distance of approximately 400 feet to a point formed by its intersection with a perpendicular line running parallel to the eastern elevation of the barn; thence proceed northerly for a distance of approximately 400 feet along said line to its intersection with the southern edge of State Highway 87; thence proceed westerly for a distance of approximately 400 feet along said line to the point of beginning.

Boundary Justification:

The original lot has been subdivided during the non-historic period, resulting in an indefinite current lot boundary; therefore, this boundary includes all the property historically associated with this resource that retains its integrity.
