Narrative Description

(Describe the historic and current physical appearance of the property. Explain contributing and noncontributing resources if necessary. Begin with a summary paragraph that briefly describes the general characteristics of the property, such as its location, setting, size, and significant features.)

Summary Paragraph

The Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery is a .296-acre parcel located approximately ¼ mile from the Wickenburg/Boetto House. The Cemetery was established circa 1902 by Henry Wickenburg on land owned by Wickenburg and originally contiguous with the Wickenburg-Boetto House property. Henry Wickenburg sold the intervening land to F.X. O'Brien in 1903, two years before his death, but the Cemetery and House remain intact. Those known to be buried in the Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery include: Henry Wickenburg, William Weise, Henry Cowell, Lydia Cowell, James C. Todd, and James S. Chase. There are three monuments constructed over gravesites on the property.

Narrative Description

Location & Setting

The Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery is located on a hill southwest of downtown Wickenburg, Arizona. A gravel drive on a right-of-way between two residential parcels extends from Adams Street to the property. Two of the monuments can be partially viewed from the street on the hill above the property, surrounded by eight residential parcels. The grade drops off steeply along the adjoining properties to the north and east. The area surrounding the gravesites is a natural bare gravel surface with a few creosote bushes and mesquite trees scattered across the site. A contemporary flagpole has been placed immediately west of the William Weise grave.

Gravesites

William Weise 1846-1907

A concrete slab covers the William Weise grave with a two-tiered "step" at the head. At the top of the "step" is a slant top marker hand inscribed as: W. Weise/1846-1907. (Several resources show his last name spelled "Wise" but the headstone and other references spells his name "Weise"). Some additional mortar around the edges of the slab suggests that it may be consolidating an earlier, possibly brick ledger. Covering the concrete slab is a pink sand finish stucco, much of which is failing. There is no documentation available to document the changes to the monument. (See photos 1 & 2).

Henry Cowell 1852-1928

Lydia Cowell 1840-1905

James C. Todd 1834-1902

The larger Cowell monument consists of three plaque identified graves surrounded by a stuccoed border about three feet in height set on a substantial foundation. A wide grave is located on the right with the two narrower graves to the left, all located within their own walled enclosures. There are three recessed panels on the wall at the foot of the graves and two recessed panels on the walls to the right and left. At the head of the graves is a wall raised to the height of about four feet. All three graves have their own recessed panels.

The names and death dates on the left two graves are hand scratched in wet OPC, "James (last name of Todd covered with concrete), Died June 17, 1902", and "Lydia Cowell, Died June 29, 1905". The grave on the right has a marble slab marker set in the recess, with the inscription "Henry Cowell, 1852-1928". The entire large monument is covered with a rough-textured gray stucco. (See photos 3-6)

Henry Wickenburg 1819-1905

The Henry Wickenburg grave is covered with a gable-roofed vault of indeterminate construction. At the head is a pediment with a recess facing the grave. In this recess is a black stone plaque with white letters:

“HENRY WICKENBURG/BORN/NOVEMBER 21, 1819/ DIED/MAY 14, 1905”. This stone plaque is set at an angle, apparently on the material of the pediment. The monument is covered with a sand finish pink stucco. (See photos 7 & 8).

James S. Chase 1824-1904

There is no marker for James S. Chase (1824-1904). The Sharlot Hall Museum offers a letter written by John Hinton (mercantile owner in La Paz, AZ) stating that James S. Chase was an Arizona pioneer and friend of Henry Wickenburg and is buried in the Pioneer Cemetery. The letter says: “further down the slope of the hilltop are graves of other pioneers, a mound water washed stone built near each; the last being that of Mr. W’s friend Chase.”

Integrity Assessment

The gravesites are in their original locations, although there have been some alterations to the exterior finishes of the individual monuments over time to protect the underlying structure (there is no documentation available to date the alterations). The tombs are believed to be constructed of brick with a stucco finish. The cemetery is located on a hill overlooking the Hassayampa River Valley, the Town of Wickenburg, and the site of the Wickenburg-Boetto House. The surrounding area, now consisting of residences, does not affect the feeling of the cemetery since the houses are located below the level of the hilltop site. Most houses are not visible from the location of the gravesites. Only when standing on the perimeter of the property can the surrounding residences be seen. The Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery retains excellent integrity of location, setting, feeling and association; good integrity of design and workmanship; and fair integrity of materials.

Cemetery Monuments

The Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery monuments represent architectural styles not generally found in the southwestern United States.

The Cowell monument is the largest tomb with a bedstead/cradle style with caps and planter (center hollow with drainage holes).

Henry Wickenburg’s tomb has a peaked bedstead (pointed) with a rectangular arch form and squared caps.

The tomb of William Weise is a squared bedstead with a rectangular arched tombstone and a raised top (two on top of each other).

Narrative Statement of Significance (provide at least one paragraph for each area of significance)

Wickenburg Pioneers

The Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery is significant as the final resting place of local pioneers associated with the development of the Town of Wickenburg, including Henry Wickenburg, William Weise, Henry & Lydia Cowell, James C. Todd, and James S. Chase.

Henry Wickenburg (1819–1905) is most significant for the discovery of the Vulture Mine (one of the richest gold mines in Arizona). The Vulture Mine played a major role in the development of Arizona; and for his involvement in Arizona's efforts to achieve statehood (occurring in 1912 after his death). Henry Wickenburg was a member of the 7th Territorial Legislature, Postmaster, Justice of the Peace, Judge, and even served on the State Mining Board. He was also a storekeeper, miner, farmer, and a Registrar for the Census. Henry Wickenburg is mentioned by Thomas Edwin Farish in History of Arizona (Volume 1-8) and in numerous other publications.

William Weise (1846-1907) originally came to the Arizona Territory from Iowa. At the time of his death he was living at the Oro Grande Mine, four miles from the Town of Wickenburg. His death announcement in the Arizona Republican states that "he was buried in Wickenburg, being laid beside the body of the late Henry Wickenburg and other pioneers of the locality."

James C. Todd (1834-1900) originally from Ohio, was the manager of the Vulture Mine and brother-in-law of Henry Cowell.

Lydia Cowell (1840-1909) was the 2nd wife of Henry Cowell.

Henry Cowell (1852-1928) originally from England, was Wickenburg's first mayor (from 1909-1910). He and his wife Lydia owned a mercantile store in Wickenburg.

James S. Chase (1824-1904) was a miner. He joined the Walker Party in New Mexico, which arrived in northern Arizona in the spring of 1863. In June of 1863 he recorded a claim for discovery of placer gold in the Hassayampa River. He also participated with Colonel King S. Woolsey in retaliatory raids against the Apache Indians and was one of 52 signers of a letter to Richard C. McCormick at Fort Whipple, Arizona Territory, in 1864 urging him to become a candidate for delegate of Congress.

Developmental history/additional historic context information (if appropriate)

Property Ownership

Henry Wickenburg originally owned the contiguous property containing the Wickenburg/Boetto House, the Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery, and the intervening land between the now separated parcels. Henry Wickenburg sold the intervening land to F.X. O'Brien in 1903. In 1903 he also deeded the remaining property to Mrs. W.S. Holland (his caretaker in the last years of his life) with the stipulation that Wickenburg be allowed to handle his affairs and live in the house until his death. The property would be conveyed to Mrs. Holland upon his death. Henry Wickenburg died on May 14, 1905.

Mrs. Holland sold the property to George Ward and Arthur Greenleaf in 1912. Arthur Greenleaf and his wife Virgie sold it to John Boetto in 1913. John and Tony Boetto deeded the cemetery portion of the property to Sylvia Maguire in 1949 for ten dollars. Mrs. Maguire donated it to the Town of Wickenburg in 1963 and the Wickenburg Historical Preservation Society purchased the Henry Wickenburg Pioneer Cemetery from the Town of Wickenburg for $1,000 on April 14, 2009.
