A black and white photograph of the entrance to a United States Court House. The building is constructed of light-colored stone blocks. The central entrance features a set of wide stone steps leading up to a dark double door. Above the door is a decorative pediment with a central crest. A sign above the door reads "UNITED STATES COURT HOUSE". On either side of the door are narrow, vertical windows with decorative, lattice-like patterns. The entrance is flanked by two large, dark, cylindrical structures on pedestals. A metal handrail runs along the steps and across the sidewalk in front of the entrance. The sky is overcast.
