Description: The Jacob Hebeisen House is located on the southwestern fringe of Hamburg in an agricultural setting. The house is composed of two sections. The 1½ story section, which forms an ell on the south facade of the house, was constructed in 1884. The two story or north section of the house was constructed in 1900. Both sections are constructed of locally fired red brick. The north section is square with a truncated hip roof. A central gable with a decorative fan motif projects from the roof-line. The front portico at the corner has turned posts with spandrels. A dominant feature on the front facade is a bay window with a central fixed plate window with a stained glass transom. The recessed one over one windows have brick window hoods and stone sills. The 1½ story ell section has a gable (see continuation sheet)		Level of Significance: Local <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> State _____ Nation _____
Significance: The Jacob Hebeisen House is a significant architectural element in the agricultural community of Hamburg. In addition, it is significant due to its association with one of Hamburg's leading merchants. Architecturally the house represents a building type common throughout the northern and southwestern agricultural areas of Carver County. This building type can best be described as 1½ to 2 stories in height, constructed of red brick, square in shape, with a truncated hip roof, constructed on an L-plan, with an entry in the main section and the ell. Ornamentation usually appears in dormers (e.g. fretwork, decorative shingles, sunburst design), and window and porch decoration. The Jacob Hebeisen House is currently undergoing extensive restoration.		Status: <table border="0"> <tr> <td>Survey</td> <td>Date</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Local</td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td>State</td> <td>10/77</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Nat'l. ## Description - continued roof with a projecting central gable on the principal facade. The gable contains a decorative fan motif. The recessed windows have brick window hoods and stone sills. An entry door is located north of center on the principal facade. A full-front porch with turned posts and spandrels that once graced the principal facade is currently being restored.

A rectangular barn to the south of the house is included within the nomination. It is wood frame and contains an elaborate Moorish entry.

The house and barn are being extensively restored to their turn-of-the-century appearance.
