STATEMENT This house is an excellent example of stylistic transition century in Davenport. The main block presents a symmetry symmetry enhanced by emphasis at the center bay through the	ical, 5-bay facade, the all suggesting an attempt at Georgian Revival. However, a variety of irregular corner treatments (polygonal bays, a 3-stage tower) create an opposite tendency toward Victorian asymmetry, and the Eastlake porch and shingled dormer also confuse a basically Georgian Colonial Revival facade.
