A black and white photograph of a church window. The window is tall and narrow, with a decorative Gothic-style arch at the top. The window is divided into three sections: a small arched section at the top, a middle section with a diamond-patterned leaded glass, and a bottom section with a diamond-patterned leaded glass. To the left of the window, on the light-colored brick wall, is a dark, diamond-shaped sign. The sign contains the text "Holy Trinity Church" in a serif font, with a small cross symbol below it. The window is set within a dark frame, and there is a dark awning or overhang above it.
