A black and white photograph of a multi-story building facade. The central portion of the building is covered in a grid of light-colored panels, possibly stone or concrete. The name "KIMBRELL'S" is mounted on this paneling in large, dark, three-dimensional block letters. To the right of the main paneling, the building's original brick structure is visible, featuring a prominent arched window on the upper floor and a storefront window on the ground floor. To the left, a narrow alleyway is visible, with a fence in the foreground and a few vehicles parked in the distance. The sky is overcast.

A black and white photograph of a two-story brick building housing the Gordon Bar-B-Q Hash restaurant. The building features a prominent sign on the second floor that reads "GORDON BAR·B·Q·HASH". Below the sign is a large, light-colored awning with the words "BAR-B-Q", "HASH", "LIVE ENTERTAINMENT", and "EST. 1952" printed on it. The building has a decorative cornice with a repeating pattern of small squares. To the left, a utility pole with power lines is visible. To the right, another brick building is partially visible. The street in the foreground is paved and has a utility pole on the sidewalk.
