FRONT FACADE CAMERA FACING WEST

A black and white photograph of the entrance to the Gregory County State Bank. The entrance is framed by a large, ornate archway. The arch is supported by decorative brackets on either side. The central part of the arch is filled with intricate carvings, including a central circular motif and floral patterns. Below the arch, the words "GREGORY COUNTY STATE BANK" are inscribed in a bold, serif font. The building's facade is made of large, rectangular stone blocks. The overall style is classical and grand.
