Sledge house
Newbern vicinity
Hale County, Alabama

The James Levi Tunstall/Augusta Sledge house is located off County Road 12, west of the intersection of County Road 12 and Alabama Highway 25 near what was once known as the Laneville community. Resting in a grove of fruit trees, the house faces north with the remnants of farm buildings located to the rear of the structure. Constructed circa 1855, the dwelling served as the plantation residence for James Levi Tunstall, a prominent planter whose principal residence was located in Greensboro.

The Sledge house is basically a square building which could be categorized as a Greek Revival cottage which has been embellished with sawnwork detailing in an attempt to convey a feeling of the picturesque, a movement popular in the mid-nineteenth century. The dwelling is similar in form and plan to numerous structures constructed in Greensboro during this time, such as the Lupton-Grote-Cobbs house, ca. 1860. The dwelling is of frame construction resting on a foundation of brick piers and features a moderately pitched hipped roof with two interior chimneys. The foundation has been enclosed with concrete blocks. Located in the middle bay of the five bay facade, the entrance door surround incorporates a full multi-pane transom and sidelights set in a Greek key or shouldered molding. The windows are 6/6 double hung sash with the second and fourth bay windows resting on jib doors allowing access onto the three-quarter width porch. All windows feature shouldered moldings. Flush boarding is located on the wall of the facade protected by the porch roof. The porch features a shallow hipped roof supported by four supports of pierced woodwork. Classical pilasters are located at the corners of the structure and a broad cornice encircles the structure. The rear of the dwelling features a five bay facade with three entrance doors. As with the other bays, these are also encased in shoulder moldings. The rear central entrance is identical to the front entrance. The rear elevation is protected by a full width half hipped roof porch which rests on unfinished wooden timbers rising from a bricked patio. Three sets of wooden steps rise from the ground to the entrance doors. The rear porch is not original to the house; the house may have featured a porch which rested on brick piers, similar to the front porch or there may not have been any type of rear porch since the wall material is simple weatherboarding and not flush boarding as is found on the facade.

The floorplan of the house is based on a central hall plan with flanking double rooms. All window and door surrounds are identical to the shouldered moldings on the exterior windows and doors. A bathroom has been constructed in the front northwest room. The mantles throughout the house are simple Greek Revival in style except for the northeast room which features a tripart Federal style mantle which may be from an earlier house.

Located behind the main house is one contributing outbuilding, the ruins of a shed, a garage, and a tenant house. All of the outbuildings were constructed ca. 1900. The nomination for the Sledge house contains 2 contributing building and three non-contributing sites.

Criterion A: Architecture

The Sledge house is a significant example of a Canebrake plantation house, a Greek Revival cottage with a porch embellished with sawnwork supports, reflecting the widespread use of decorative detailing in an effort to achieve a picturesque effect. The house yields information regarding the styles, form, construction methods, techniques and craftsmanship utilized by the residents of the Canebrake from 1830-1942. The house retains a high degree of integrity in regard to design, materials, workmanship, feeling and setting.

Historical Summary

In 1856, James Levi Tunstall purchased a tract of land from James Morisette which included the property associated with the Sledge house. While the deed from Morisette to Tunstall does not mention a dwelling house, family tradition as relayed by Augusta Tunstall Sledge, a direct descendent of James Levi Tunstall, has always maintained that a house was already located on the property when purchased by the Tunstall family. Since its purchase by James Levi Tunstall in 1856, the land has remained in the possession of the Tunstall family. The present owner, Mrs. Augusta Tunstall Sledge is the great-granddaughter of James Levi Tunstall and received the house and the surrounding 1000 acres during the division of the Tunstall estate in 1951. Today, the property is maintained as a hunting camp. <sup>1</sup>

Archeological Potential

Although no formal archeological survey has been made at the Sledge house, the potential for subsurface remains may be high. Properties of this type were sited with a constellation of dependencies such as kitchens and other buildings. Buried portions may contain significant information that may be useful in interpreting the entire property.
