A black and white photograph of a classical stone archway. The arch is supported by two columns with ornate capitals. Above the arch, a decorative cornice with a row of small, square, projecting elements runs across the top. The words "LOSEY MEMORIAL" are carved in large, bold, capital letters within a rectangular frame above the arch. The scene is set against a clear sky, with the dark silhouettes of trees visible in the background and through the archway. The lighting creates strong shadows, highlighting the architectural details.
