

Asilomar Conference Grounds, entrance gates (1913), view looking into grounds from Asilomar Boulevard. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Asilomar Conference Grounds, Administration Building (1913), east, or rear, view looking southwest. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Administration Building (1913), Asilomar Asilomar Conference Grounds. East and north sides. View facing west from entrance road at View Point walkway.
Note rock walls at left. (Aaron A.
Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Fireside complex, east of Asilomar Boulevard in Department of Parks and Recreation Training Center. View looking northeast. Example of new construction (not included in nominated area) surrounding historic core. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

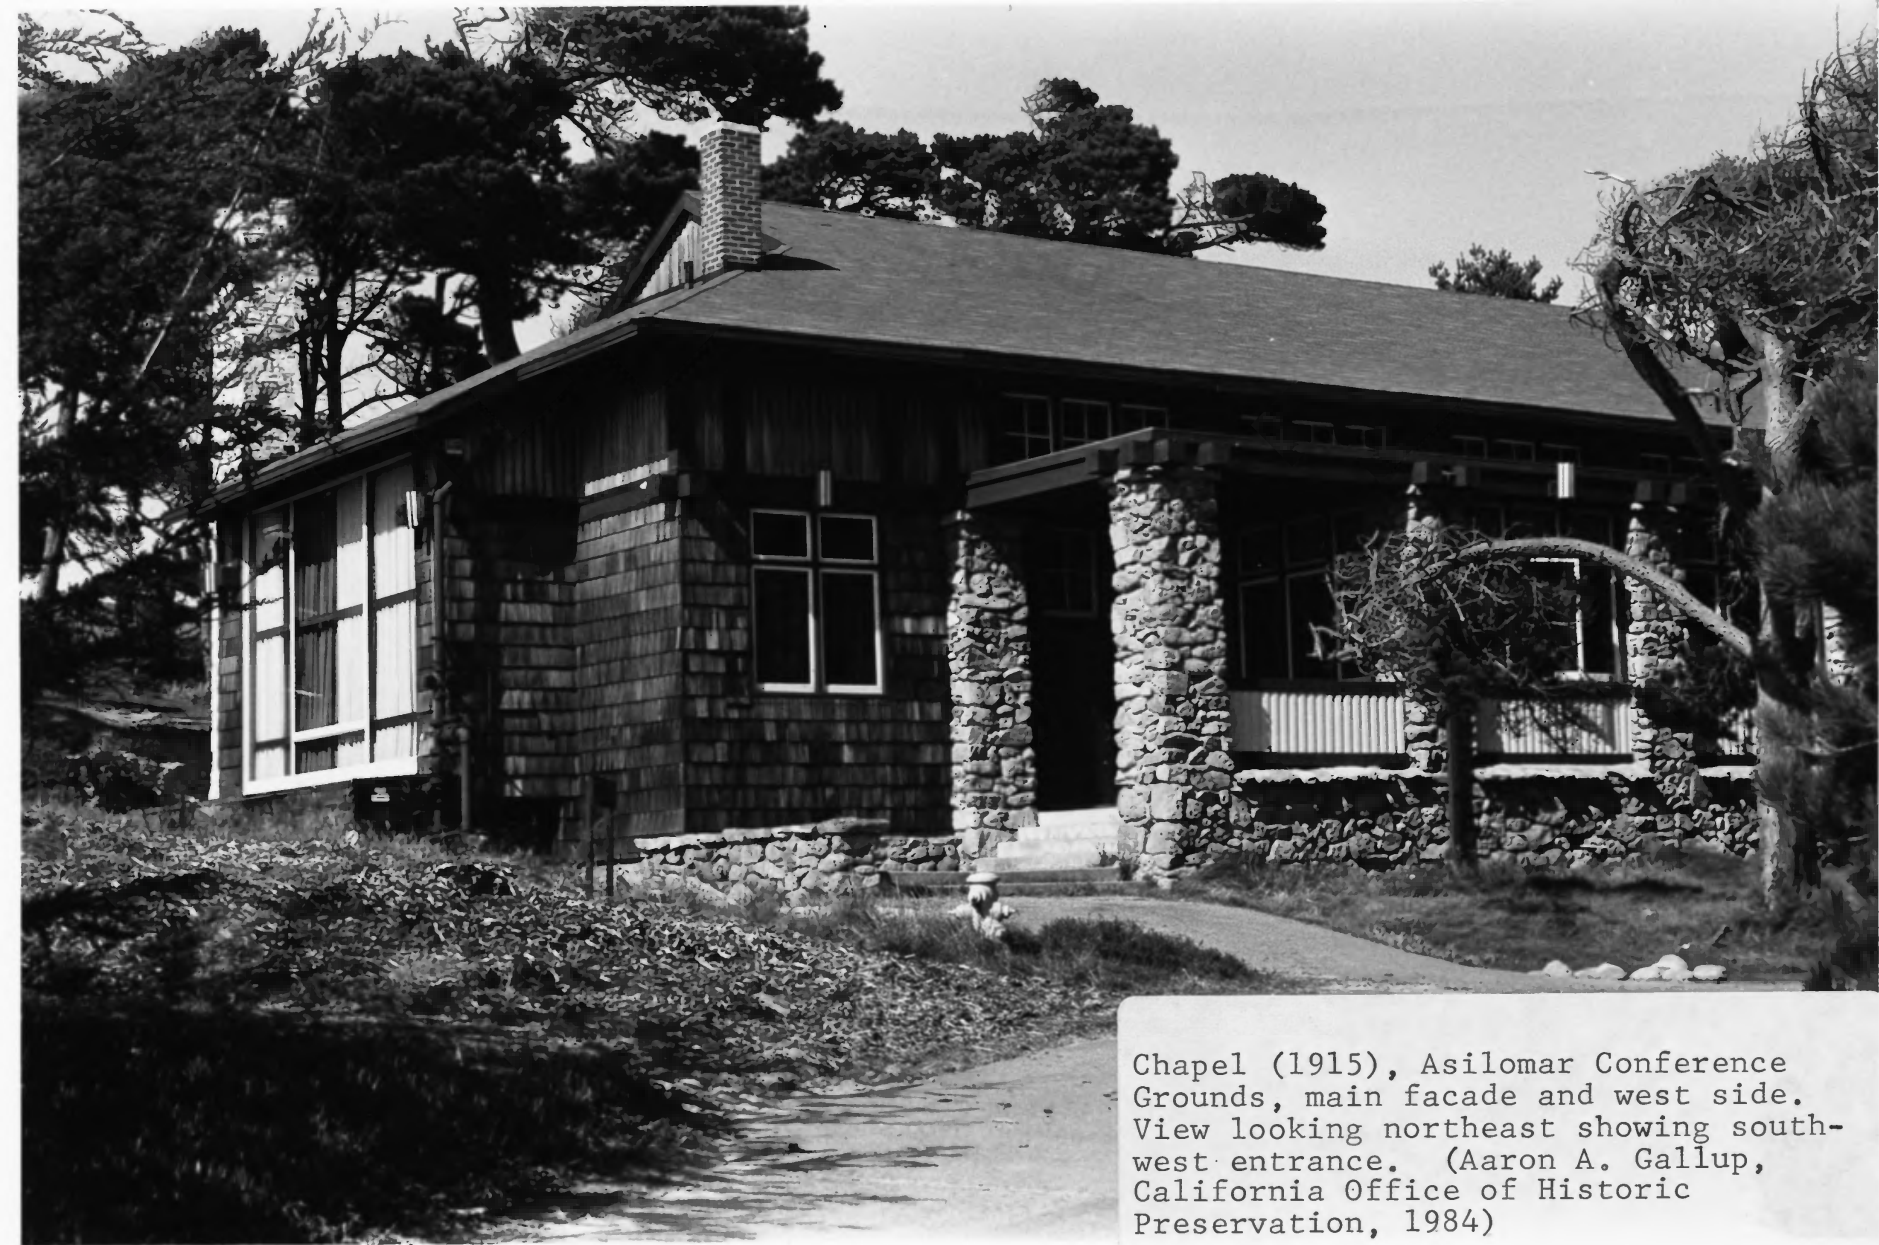

Crocker Dining Hall (1918), Asilomar Conference Grounds, view looking north. Original hall to right with 1961 kitchen wing in foreground and 1961 dining room addition (Seascape), at left. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

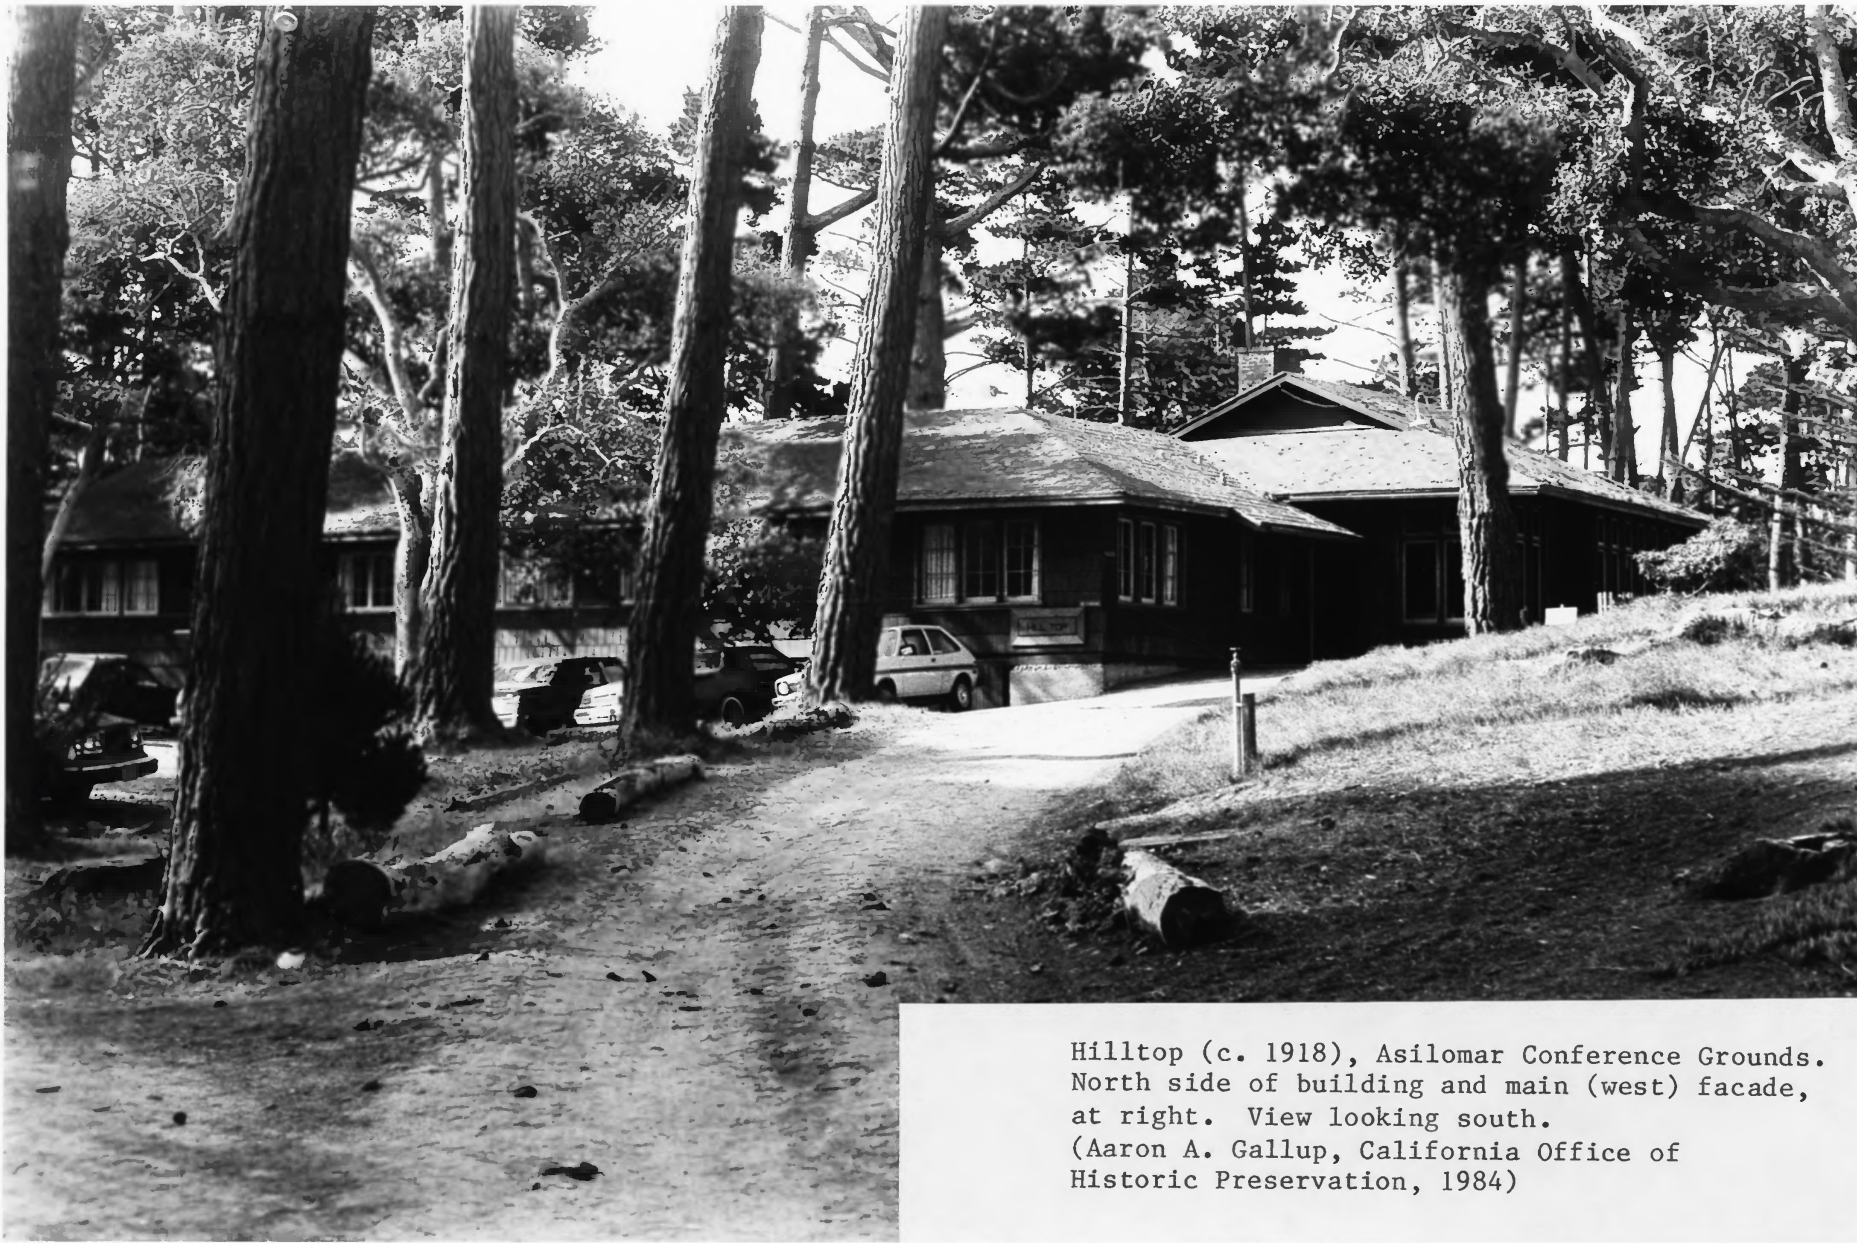

Scripps Lodge (1927-28), west side and main (south) facade, view looking north-northeast. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Scripps Lodge (1927-28), Asilomar Conference
Grounds, west side, view toward south.
(Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of
Historic Preservation, 1984)

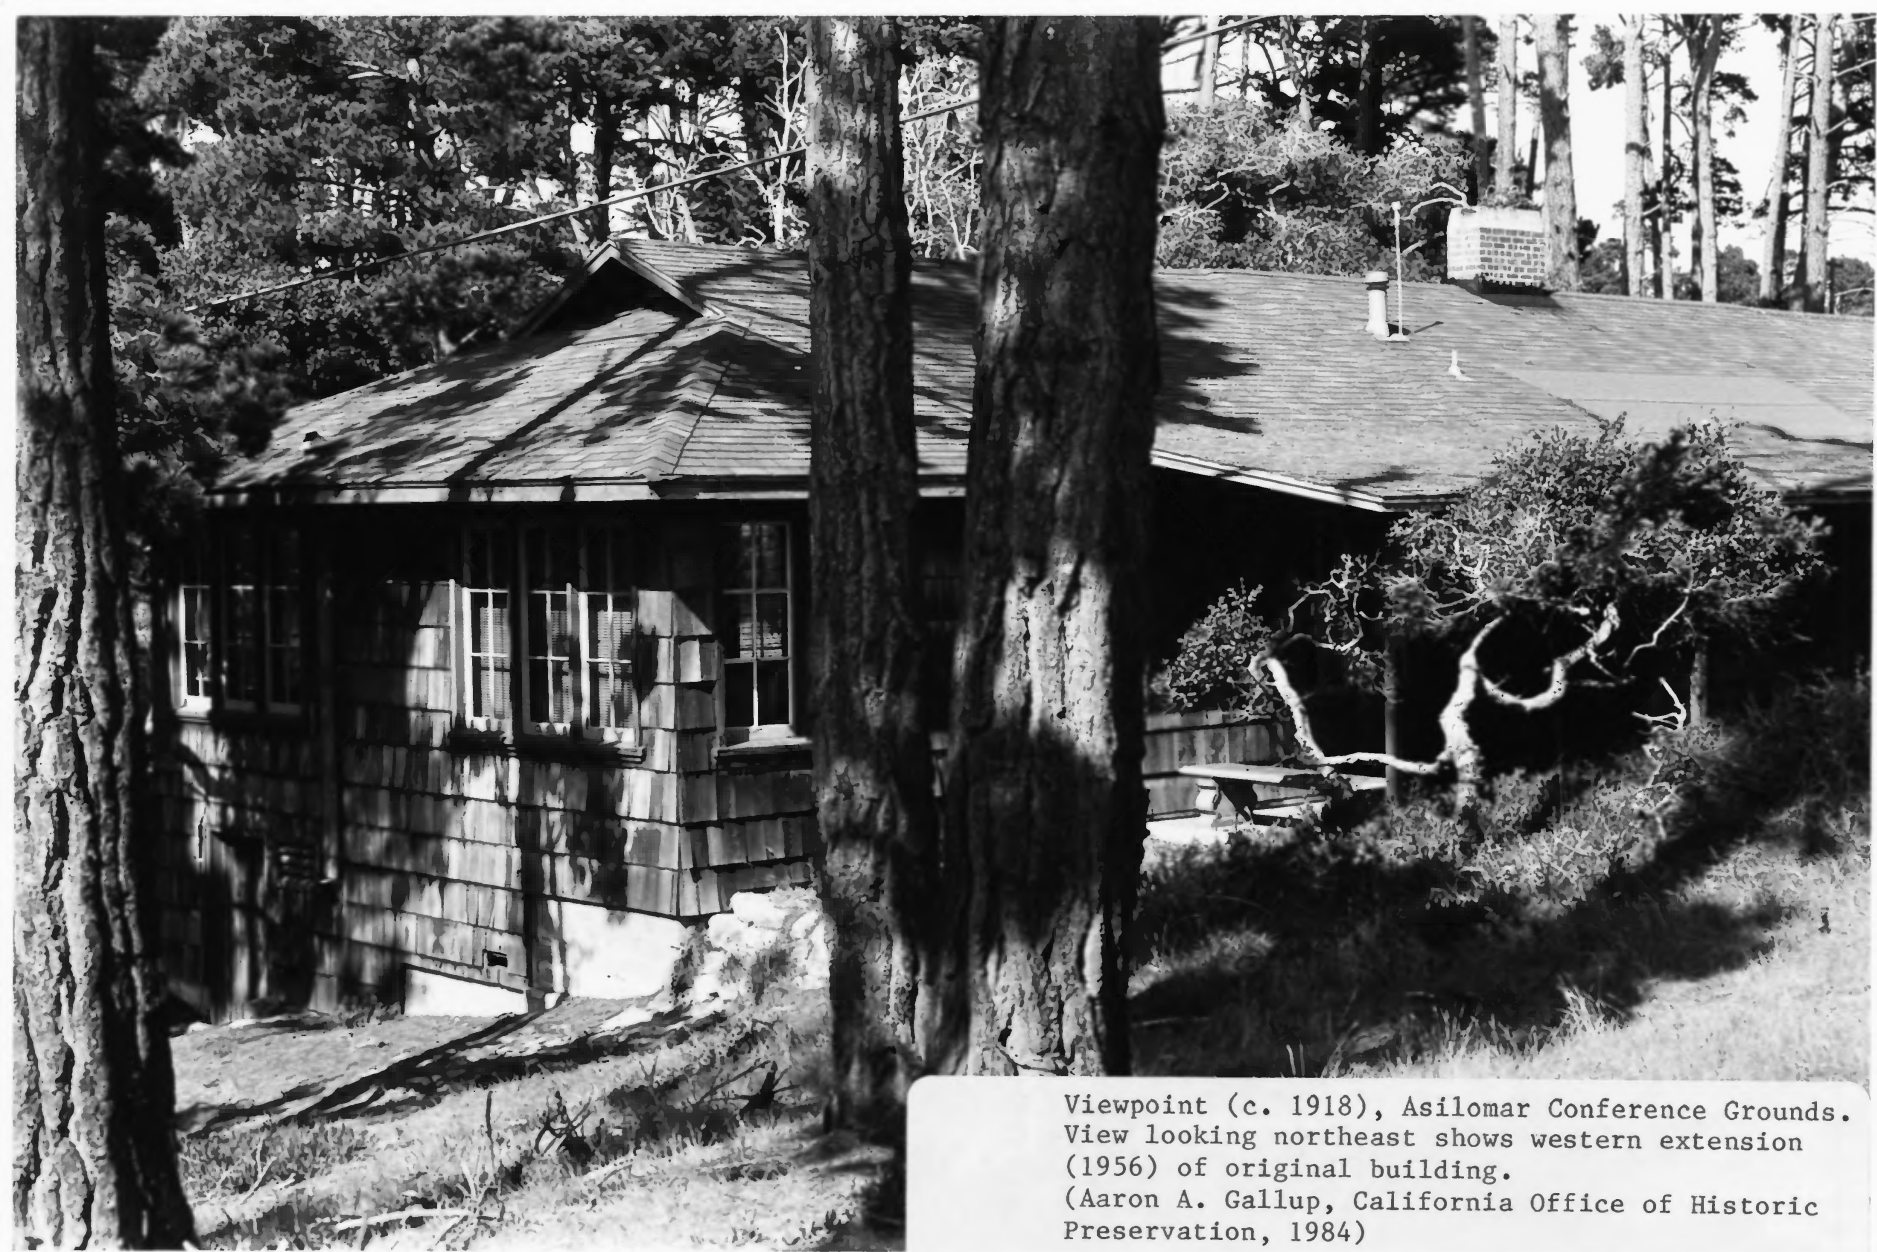

Chapel (1915), Asilomar Conference Grounds, main facade and west side. View looking northeast showing southwest entrance. (Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Hilltop (c. 1918), Asilomar Conference Grounds. North side of building and main (west) facade, at right. View looking south.
(Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)

Hilltop (c. 1918), Asilomar Conference Grounds.
View looking east from Viewpoint.
(Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of
Historic Preservation, 1984)

Viewpoint (c. 1918), Asilomar Conference Grounds.
View looking northeast shows western extension
(1956) of original building.
(Aaron A. Gallup, California Office of Historic Preservation, 1984)