A black and white photograph of a single-story commercial building, identified as a furniture store. The building has a flat roof and a prominent horizontal band across the top. The words "CRASS FURNITURE" are printed in large, bold, sans-serif capital letters on this band, appearing twice. The building's facade is mostly dark, suggesting large windows or glass doors. In the foreground, there is a paved area, possibly a parking lot or street, with a manhole cover visible. A utility pole with multiple power lines is positioned in the upper left. A street sign is visible on the corner of the building. The sky is bright and overcast.

A black and white photograph of a street scene. A tall, thin utility pole stands in the foreground, with a street lamp at the top. A large white sign is attached to the pole, reading "Wallpaper for Less". The sign is positioned in front of a two-story brick building. The building has several windows with decorative awnings. To the right, another brick building is visible, featuring a window with a sign that says "VINT". A car is partially visible on the left side of the frame. The overall scene is a typical urban street view.
