This is a two story, over basement, rusticated central rectangular block flanked by a wing on each side. The main entrance has one story doric columns topped by a broken pediment with a clock in the center. Square and round arched steel and glass windows are used. The second story center block (courtroom) features an engaged doric hexastyle design. The columns are alternated with round arches and medallions.

Inside the building there are painted acoustical tile designs (see photograph) in ochre, red, black and green. Marble flooring is in the corridors.

The courtroom has a 25' high ceiling. A plain judge's bench is backed by a tall rounded arch with coupled Corinthian pilasters on each side. The spacious room contains approximately 3720 square feet.

CARROLL COUNTY COURTHOUSE

SIGNIFICANCE:

The Renaissance Revival design depend more on massing and horizontal lines than detail. The interior of this courthouse has many interesting and unusual features such as painted acoustical tile designs, marble flooring and a 25' high courtroom ceiling. The courtroom is one of the largest (3720 sq. ft.) found in Georgia.
