A black and white photograph of a brick building facade. The building features a decorative cornice with a striped pattern at the top. Below this is a window with a decorative lintel and a central mullion. A sign for "FERTITTA'S" is mounted on the wall below the window. The sign is rectangular with a white background and black lettering. Below the sign is another decorative band with a striped pattern. At the bottom of the image, there is a large, light-colored rectangular object, possibly a sign or a piece of furniture, partially visible.
