Section 7	Page 1	Camp Sherman Community Hall
		Jefferson County, Oregon

SUMMARY

The Camp Sherman Community Hall remains, to this day, 54 years after construction began, as a great source of pride to the community of Camp Sherman. It has hosted most of the events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of the history of Camp Sherman. All improvements and upkeep for the Hall have been accomplished by volunteers and by continuing fundraisers like the annual Pancake Breakfast. The people of Camp Sherman are just as eager today as they were in the 1940's to maintain the integrity and special memories the Hall has brought to so many families. The spirit of the original builders is still alive and well. Many members of the early Hall builders' families are still involved to this day.

SETTING

The Hall is located on the east side of the main road leading to the heart of Camp Sherman. The Community Hall is fronted by a gravel parking lot and surrounded on the north and east by a natural forest of large ponderosa pine trees. The adjacent property on the south side of the Hall houses the local Fire Hall. The property is in good condition. The only alteration has been an addition to the rear of the building that added two restrooms, a kitchen and a storage room in 1983.

GENERAL CHARACTERISTICS

The Camp Sherman Community Hall is a 1 and  $\frac{1}{2}$  story, Craftsman style structure with a rectangular plan, a low-pitched roof, rustic shingle siding and a small front porch entry. The building is 34 feet wide by 56.5 feet long.

EXTERIOR

The entry to the Hall is a 4.5 foot by 9 foot covered porch with double wood doors having single pane windows in the upper half. The building is sided in dark brown stained wood shingles. The foundation is concrete stem walls that are original to the building.

The original windows in the Hall consist of four large wooden, true divided light windows, plus four smaller wood windows. One of the large windows (4'x 13') is located on the front (west) side of the building. The other three large windows (each 6'X6') are evenly spaced on the original south wall of the Hall. There are two aluminum windows upstairs on the north wall, that were installed in 2000 to replace the original wood windows that had broken. On the main floor there are two additional small windows on the north side, one in the original kitchen and one in the storage room on the west side of the fireplace alcove.

Section 7 Page 2 Camp Sherman Community Hall Jefferson County, Oregon

The chimney, built of local welded tuft stone, still stands as originally constructed along the north side of the Hall. Past the chimney, on the north exterior of the Hall, there is a small step-up covered landing with a wooden door that leads into the original kitchen. On the back of the building is a metal door, again, part of the addition. The metal roof replaced the original shake roof in 1996.

INTERIOR

The interior of the Hall reflects the Craftsman style with the large hand-hewn beams and the aged pine paneling that clearly represent the rustic Camp Sherman style as well.

Upon entering the Community Hall from the front entrance on the west side of the building, straight ahead is a small coat room that sits under the stairs that are just to the left, leading to the attic/balcony area. Turning to the right leads into the main area of the Hall. There is a small one-step up (10.5 inch rise) stage under the front window. This 16.5 foot by 8 foot stage was built by Dan Richartz in 2000. It replaces the original stage that was located in the back southeast corner of the building. The original fireplace sits in a large alcove off of the main part of the Hall on the north side. Next to this area, on the west side, is a small storage room. On the east side of the fireplace alcove is the original kitchen. It has been left intact. The original part of the building remains as it was built in the late 1940's, including the knotty pine paneling and the fir floor. The hand-hewn beams that help support the building were crafted by Luther Metke, a well-known Central Oregon log structure builder.<sup>1</sup> Luther was instrumental in the building of several early dwellings in Camp Sherman as well as structures in the Sunriver area and the National Forests.

Along the south end of the Hall, the 1983 addition has walls of painted sheetrock and vinyl floors. The addition holds men's and women's restrooms, one large and one small storage room and a second kitchen. Prior to the addition there were only outhouse facilities behind the Hall. The original kitchen was small with no room for a full size refrigerator and oven.

In the northeast corner of the Hall, near the door to the coatroom, there is a staircase that leads to a partial upstairs (10 foot-wide) overlooking the main Hall below. The bottom three stairs are finished in hardwood, the remaining nine stairs are unfinished. The unfinished stairs are separated from the main area by a plywood door. The upstairs runs above the main floor coatroom, storage room, fireplace alcove, original kitchen and the restroom portion of the 1983 addition along the north side of the Hall. On the west end of the upstairs, there is a small storage area behind a door and on the east end there is a large enclosed attic area over the 1983 addition.

ALTERATIONS

In 1983, a 22.5-foot addition was added across the east end of the Hall. The 1983 addition has walls of painted sheetrock and vinyl floors. The addition holds a men's and women's restrooms, one large and one small storage room and a second kitchen. Prior to the addition there were only outhouse facilities behind the Hall. As part of the addition, a second storage room was added upstairs. Four smaller wood windows are in the addition; one in each restroom, one in the second kitchen and one in the storage room. At the east end of the hallway in the addition a metal door has been added.

A new propane heating system was installed in 1995. The new system included an insert in the fireplace.

The green standing seam metal roof replaced the original shake roof in 1996. Two aluminum windows were installed upstairs in 2000 to replace the original wood windows that had broken. Finally, the 10.5 inch high stage under the front window was built in 2000 to replace the original stage located in the southeast corner of the building. This stage is 16.5 feet wide (narrowing to 14.5 feet at the front or east end) and 8 feet deep.

PROPOSED REHABILITATION

The Camp Sherman Community Hall Renovation Plan includes a list of items that will be completed as funding becomes available. Restoration plans include: replacement of the aluminum windows with wood windows; replacement of the light fixtures in Main Room to eliminate fluorescent lighting; and restoration of the fireplace to its original use. Maintenance plans include: insulation of walls and floor; installation of double pane wood windows or storm windows; installation of sump pump for main drain; and refinishing flooring.<sup>2</sup>

SUMMARY

The Camp Sherman Community Hall in the Jefferson County, Oregon community of Camp Sherman, is proposed for nomination under Criterion (a) and Criterion (c). The Hall has been the center of recreation and entertainment in this somewhat isolated community since its construction was completed in 1949.<sup>1</sup> The Hall was constructed to fulfill the directive of the Camp Sherman Community Association and, even to this day, the Hall hosts most of the events in the area. The Hall is located near the center of the community adjacent to the Fire Hall

The Hall is significant under Criterion (a) because for over fifty years it has hosted most of the events and gatherings that bring the people of the area together as a community and make a significant contribution to the broad patterns of the history of Camp Sherman. The Hall has been used for community potlucks, local school programs and fund-raisers, square dances, bingo, weddings, nondenominational Christmas and Easter services, parties, private and public meetings and candidates forums. The Hall is also significant under Criterion (c) as an excellent example of a rustic Craftsman style building, constructed with local materials, and designed and built by local community members.

THE COMMUNITY OF CAMP SHERMAN

Camp Sherman is an unincorporated community, located in Jefferson County, Oregon. Approximately 150 families reside in the area full time.<sup>2</sup> The first school was built in the 1888.<sup>3</sup> Today local children attend a two-room school with enrollment fluctuating in the last 20 years from a low of six children in 1978 to a high of 38 students in 1995.<sup>4</sup>

The community is isolated from the rest of the county by the great fault scarp of Green Ridge and a deep canyon where the Deschutes and Metolius Rivers meet.<sup>5</sup> One paved road links Camp Sherman with the outside world. In the winter months, heavy snowfall can increase the remoteness of this community.

In the early 1900s, many residents of Sherman County spending their summer vacations along the Metolius.<sup>6</sup> When the Forest Service lands were opened up for use as summer homes in 1915, many Sherman County families obtained permits to construct summer cabins along the river. One of the new cabin owners, William Heinrichs, was the county assessor of Sherman County and he marked the road to the Metolius by attaching old license plates to trees. A "Camp Sherman" sign was posted to mark the road. When the Post Office was looking for a name for its new post office, Heinrichs suggested the name Camp Sherman.<sup>7</sup>

CAMP SHERMAN COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

The Camp Sherman Community Association (CSCA), a non-profit corporation, was formed in 1948 for the purpose of "The establishment, maintenance, and management of an association for the promotion of social intercourse among persons living in the Camp Sherman community; to construct, operate, and maintain a recreation hall for such purpose; to promote, aid, and assist in the civic betterment of said community; and to do all the things deemed necessary or proper to promote the welfare of said community."<sup>8</sup> And for other purposes that support the fulfillment of this pursuit. The CSCA owns and maintains the Hall and its membership voted unanimously to support the nomination of the Hall to the National Register of Historic Places.

THE HALL

The Association fulfills its mandates through events held in the Hall. In the January, February and March, it is used for "Cabin Fever" potlucks, where residents get-together when the winter seems like it will never end. The local school invites the whole community to its Christmas and End-of-School-Year program in the Hall. The school also uses the Hall for fundraisers, such as their Christmas Bazaar and a Spaghetti Feed and Bingo night. In the early years there were square dances in the Hall, more recently the Hall has hosted New Year's Eve dances. The local quilting group, the Pine Needlers, hold a quilt show in the Hall each July. In May, the Friends of the Metolius host their annual meeting in the Hall. The Community Association raises funds with its annual 4th of July pancake breakfast in the Hall. Christmas Eve and Easter services, wedding receptions, community meetings, candidate's forums, and informational meetings with the Forest Service and Jefferson County representatives are other events that occur in the Hall.

Construction of the Hall was a community enterprise. The land was a gift of a Hays and Roblay McMullin, local owners of Lake Creek Lodge.<sup>9</sup> The Hall was designed by Wayne Korish, a local homeowner, who also designed and built the family resort, The Pines, in Camp Sherman. He and his wife Kitty, along with other Camp Sherman residents, such as Judge Frank Tate, Luther Metke, Bronson Burdick, Alex McLennan and John Bruns all pitched in with their carpentry skills.<sup>10</sup> The Bend Bulletin, a local newspaper, reported on April 12, 1948, that some 50 people joined in the preliminary work clearing the area for the Hall. Lumber was donated by local mills. Full time and summer residents contributed money necessary for equipment and furnishings and supported community fund raising events.<sup>11</sup> For many summers, the community raised funds by holding barbecues featuring bear, venison and trout.<sup>12</sup> The Hall was built by the community, for the community, and from its construction to the present day it has remained the center of all activity in Camp Sherman.

The Hall was constructed as one large room with a cloakroom near the front door and a balcony. The interior is finished in knotty pine. A stone fireplace is situated near the middle of the room. Hand hewn beams support the roof.

In 1983, a new kitchen, a storage room and bathrooms were added to the rear of the Hall. Again, this was done primarily with volunteer labor.<sup>13</sup> Additional improvements during the 1990's included a new roof, new propane heating and a new stage.<sup>14</sup>

LUTHER METKE

Although the Hall is not being nominated under Criterion B, a discussion of its construction would be incomplete without information about one of the key builders involved in its construction. The large, hand hewn beams inside the Hall were crafted by Luther Metke, a long time resident of the community, poet and pioneer who contributed much to the cultural landscapes of Central Oregon.<sup>15</sup> When the site for the Hall was being cleared, Luther fell several pine trees. He used the lumber from these trees for the hand-hewn beams.

Luther was born February 20, 1885 in Buffalo, New York.<sup>16</sup> In his early twenties he settled in Central Oregon, about 50 miles from Camp Sherman, and moved to Camp Sherman in 1942.<sup>17</sup> He built over 30 log cabins and many bridges in Central Oregon.<sup>18</sup> Three of the log cabins he built are located on Metke Lane in Camp Sherman. One of the bridges he constructed crossed the Metolius River near the Camp Sherman Store.<sup>19</sup> Luther surveyed and cleared the right of way for the Santiam Highway between Hogg

Rock and Lost Lake and supervised many Civilian Construction Core projects in the Camp Sherman area.<sup>20</sup> During World War II, Luther owned the Camp Sherman Store, a focal point in Camp Sherman that still stands in the same place today. In 1979, filmmaker Steve Rayman heard of Luther, then 90 years old, and filmed a documentary "Luther Metke at 94" which was nominated for an Academy Award and distributed internationally. Luther Metke celebrated his 100th birthday with friends and relatives at the Hall in 1985.<sup>21</sup> The Governor of Oregon declared that day Luther Metke Day.<sup>22</sup> At that time, Luther was the last living Spanish American War veteran in Oregon.<sup>23</sup> Less than two months later, on April 7, 1985, Luther passed away. Today, Luther Metke's grandson serves as the President of the Camp Sherman Community Association.

DISTINCTIVE CHARACTERISTICS

The Hall is an excellent example of a large rustic Craftsman style building and the only such building in the area. Its wood framed exterior displays many characteristics of the Craftsman style, including its low-pitched roof, rustic shingle style surface material, and one and one half story rectangular composition with a horizontal earth-hugging quality. The interior details reflect the style with the true divided light pane windows, the stone chimney and the large open central space. An article published in The Craftsman magazine in the early 1900's explained that the exterior lines of a Craftsman building are very simple and its interior divisions are few.<sup>24</sup> The Hall reflects the simplicity desired in a Craftsman building.

The Craftsman style also advocated fine craftsmanship, structural honesty and the use of natural materials.<sup>25</sup> The Hall was constructed of pine from the site and lumber donated from local mills. Luther Metke, a well-known craftsman, carved the hand-hewn beams from pine trees he fell on the property. The chimney was built of local welded tuft stone. The Hall is an excellent reflection of the simplicity, fine craftsmanship, structural honesty and use of natural materials desired in a rustic Craftsman style structure and as such it is significant under Criterion (c).
