A black and white photograph of an archaeological site. In the center, a vertical scale bar with alternating light and dark squares is placed on the ground. To the left of the scale bar is a shallow, roughly rectangular pit or depression in the soil. To the right, there are several fragments of pottery or other artifacts, some showing decorative patterns like horizontal lines. A white rectangular label is positioned in the lower right corner, containing handwritten text in Spanish. The background is a textured, light-colored earth surface.
