A black and white photograph of a large, multi-story brick building, likely a university or institutional structure. The building features a prominent portico with several columns on the right side. The facade is made of dark brick with decorative elements around the windows and doors. A large tree on the left side of the frame casts shadows over the building. In the foreground, there is a lawn and a sidewalk. A sign on a post in the lower-left corner provides information about a parking area.
