#1483 1202 9th Street, ill. 45.

4. Owner: NE Regional Hospital, P. O. Box 238, Las Vegas, NM/Attn:George Jones
7. Description: Side facing U-shape mass covered by intersecting gables with shed-roofed portion within; stucco over wood frame; asphalt shingle roofs; small eaves overhang; 2/2 double-hung windows; two single doors; chamfered and incised porch posts with wooden brackets. Located on a residential block of later houses at the eastern edge of the Gallinas River flood plain, facing Highlands University athletic fields.
8. Significance: An interesting, well maintained Wood Vernacular house. The front portion employs the simplest form of the center hall plan while the rear parts of this unusual U-shaped building can not be read from the outside. The porch is a particularly fine example of the local use of picturesque wooden ornament during the 1880's. Boards wrapping the posts suggest "bases." Above these, two horizontal grooves frame applied round bosses, then comes chamfering and vertical indentations topped by another set of grooves and bosses, and finally stock wooden brackets. Another set of simpler, cut-out brackets rotated to the horizontal complete the design. The building once stood by itself on the Old Mora Road (now Ninth Street).
