STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE		······································

The architectural significance of the Ida County Courthouse is perhaps its most readily apparent feature. The landscaping of the courthouse square is quite natural and refreshing, even unique in this crowded age. It is really more like a park than a formal courtyard.

The courthouse figures also in the politics of the region not only through the conduct of elections and daily government business, but in the county caucuses as well. Senator Harold Hughes started here as did Ed Campbell, a Republican member of the national legislature in an earlier era.

If sentiment is to be considered then that too must be entered here. We are a young territory, some of the last and most rapidly settled land in the nation. A few others came earlier, but the farmers who broke this land came with the railroad in the 1870's and 1880's; some of their great grandchildren are still on that same land. The first building they built when the town was established was a courthouse, and even as early as 1883 they had the foresight to build their new courthouse (the first one burned) large enough and sound enought to serve for at least ninety years. Local citizens take some measure of pride in knowing that as they go about their business in the Courthouse, that they share this heritage with their families before them. The records of five and six generations are found in this site.
