DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The boundaries of the nominated property are the same as Fort Ridgely State Park boundaries on the east and south except extending west on County Road 29 to the North/South boundary of Section 6, R 32 W, T 111 N; thence, north on this line to the Renville/Nicollet County border and east on this line to the present State Park border.

When Fort Ridgely was completed in 1855 it consisted of the commandant's and surgeon's homes, a stone barracks, officer's quarters, a bakery, a laundry, and the commissary, grouped around a parade ground about 300 feet square. Outside this main grouping were various other structures including stables, sattlers' buildings, a hospital, small log residences for non-commissioned officers and civilians, two powder magazines and various ice houses and root cellars. The original plan of the Fort called for a stockade and two blockhouses. These were never built.

In 1935 when excavation of the site was begun, all that remained of the original buildings were the south, east and west walls of the stone commissary and one of the log powder magazines which had been moved from its original site.

Presently the foundations of eight of these original buildings can be seen, having been exposed by the excavation in 1935. These foundations are marked with interpretive plaques. The powder magazine has been moved back to the fort area. The commissary building was restored in 1937 as a joint project of the Minnesota Historical Society, the C.C.C., Minnesota State Parks, and the National Park Service. The buildings is presently being used as a museum and interpretive center.
