Narrative Description

(Describe the historic and current physical appearance of the property. Explain contributing and noncontributing resources if necessary. Begin with a summary paragraph that briefly describes the general characteristics of the property, such as its location, setting, size, and significant features.)

Summary Paragraph

The properties along the 100 block of East Avenue B demonstrate the variety of building styles common in the first half of the twentieth century in Bismarck, North Dakota. In addition to the properties within the expanded boundaries, an update to three properties on the original 1980 nomination and to one property the 1997 boundary increase are included.

Narrative Description

Contributing Resources:

152. 523 North First Street: 1910; Colonial Revival. This Dutch Colonial Revival has a one-story wood porch with a hip roof supported by three doric columns. Plain balusters and rails guard the edge of the porch and simple wood steps provide access to the main door; wood lattice surrounds the porch from below the floor to the ground. A modern entry door with a storm door is on the north side of the facade and a large fixed window is on the south. The second story has a pair of double-hung windows. A one-story enclosed porch with a hip roof and ribbons of 3-over-1 windows is at the rear of the building. A cross gambrel is located at the back of the house with a single double-hung window on the upper floor. The first floor has two windows providing light to the basement, a small double-hung window near the rear and a large fixed window (1-over-1) near the front.
153. 104 Avenue B East: 1934; Spanish Revival variation. The main body of this residence has a crenellated parapet with a pair of 4-over-1 double-hung windows on the east end of the south facade. A single window of this same style is on the east wall. The porch extends from the west end approximately halfway across the facade and has a gable roof. The opening to the porch is roughly 3.5' with a low segmented arch overhead. Another segmented arch opening is over the knee wall on the west side. The rest of the porch is enclosed with three 4-over-1 windows centered between the opening and the end of the porch. A 1-over-1 window provides light into the basement, two more are on the south wall of the main body of the residence. A horizontal band is at the level of the porch floor.
154. 106 Avenue B East: 1926; Gable Front. The enclosed porch of this residence extends two-thirds of the way across the front and the entry door is in the L this creates. The five 3-over-1 double-hung windows have a few inches between them and together make a segmented arch. Each window has a 1-over-1 screen and a window box supported by simple brackets is just below the windows. The porch is covered by a shed roof. The main body of the residence has a cross gable roof with the gables being clipped. There is a pair of 3-over-1 double-hung windows on this gable with siding patterned as wood shingles under the peak down to the level of the cross gable. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles and a brick chimney extends several feet above the roof at the west end. On the east side, there are numerous windows of a variety of sizes and styles. There is also an entry door with a modern screen door.
155. 112 Avenue B East: 1925; American Foursquare. There are two sets of concrete steps leading up to this American Foursquare residence. The first is four steps, followed by a landing, and then five steps lead onto the porch. The steps to the porch are just right of center and lead directly to the modern entry door. To the right is a knee wall with a square corner post and an open side. To the right of the door is an enclosed portion with three pairs of windows with 2-over-2 double-hung windows. Each pair is protected by one storm window that is 1-over-1. The overall plan of the porch steps back twice from the front edge. The second step back has a larger 1-over-1 window. Just below the porch floor and at the top of the porch are smooth horizontal bands that contrast with the rough texture of the main stucco. The second story has two pair of 3-over-1 double-hung windows and each window has its own 1-over-1 storm window. There is a small addition to the rear and a hip roof can be seen above a shed roof on the east side. Also on the east are two double-hung windows on the upper floor and a variety of windows on the main floor. There is also another walk door on this side. A brick chimney is visible above the roof at the west end.

156. 115 Avenue B East: 1929; Bungalow. This bungalow has an enclosed porch under a hip roof that is a few feet shorter than the main body of the residence. Two concrete steps lead up to the modern door. The lower portion of the porch has narrow lap siding while the door surround and the upper portion with the windows has vertical siding. Three double-hung 3-over-1 windows are on each side of the central door and another three of these windows are on each side of the porch. Similar windows of different sizes are along the sides of the main body of the building. The narrow lap siding continues to just above the level of the side eave and then vertical siding extends up to the peak. A small three-light window sits just above the peak of the porch roof.
157. Albert M. Fisher House (116 Avenue B East): ca 1915; Bungalow. This large bungalow has a defined gable porch with three concrete steps centered on the gable end. To the west of the steps is enclosed and to the east is a knee wall with double corner posts with capitals that have the same rounded profile as the exposed rafter tails. The porch has wood shingles under the peak and then narrow lap wood siding like the rest of the residence. The residence also has deep soffits and knee brackets. A brick chimney extends up from the southeast corner where the porch meets the main side-gabled body of the house. Most windows are 2-over-3 or 3-over-3 double-hung and are in groups.<sup>1</sup>
158. 120 Avenue B East: 1914; American Foursquare. This large foursquare apartment building has a symmetrical facade with three concrete steps up to a raised porch. The single entry door at the center has a modern screen door and protrudes from the main body of the building. A few feet to each side of this entry is a one-story bay window; the sides are double-hung windows with leaded glass in the upper sash while the central window is larger with two fixed panes below a single transom of leaded glass. A plain wrought iron rail with an occasional scroll surrounds the edge of the porch between wrought iron posts. Windows on the second story and the east side are all double-hung. A large gable dormer with two smaller double-hung windows is centered on the facade with horizontal lap siding on the wall portion and fish scale siding under the peak. A smaller version of this dormer is also on the east and west sides. Next to the large dormer on the south facade is a small gable dormer with a small double-hung window. While most of the foundation shows the forms used in pouring it, along the east side, three rows of pressed concrete block are on top of the regular concrete. On the north side is a one-story addition with a shed roof. The addition is smaller than the building, has a boarded window, and an eight-panel walk door. The corners are not trimmed the same way as the house.

Amendment to the 1980 nomination. The following three properties have been demolished to create parking

- #52 Clarence B. Little Carriage House (510 North Washington Street)
- #54 William F. Cochrane House (316 Avenue A West)
- #55 Gaylord Conrad House (320 Avenue A West)

Amendment to the 1997 Boundary Increase nomination. Research has provided enough information to warrant a name change to the following property.

- #69 Neil O. Churchill House (618 North Mandan Street)

8. Statement of Significance

Applicable National Register Criteria

(Mark "x" in one or more boxes for the criteria qualifying the property for National Register listing)

- A Property is associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history.
- B Property is associated with the lives of persons significant in our past.
- C Property embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction or represents the work of a master, or possesses high artistic values, or represents a significant and distinguishable entity whose components lack individual distinction.
- D Property has yielded, or is likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history.

Areas of Significance

(Enter categories from instructions)

Community Planning & Development

Architecture

Period of Significance

1905-1949

Significant Dates

Significant Person

(Complete only if Criterion B is marked above)

Cultural Affiliation

Architect/Builder

Criteria Considerations

(Mark "x" in all the boxes that apply)

Property is:

- A owned by a religious institution or used for religious purposes.
- B removed from its original location.
- C a birthplace or grave.
- D a cemetery.
- E a reconstructed building, object, or structure.
- F a commemorative property.
- G less than 50 years old or achieving significance within the past 50 years.

Period of Significance (justification)

Previously established in Bismarck Cathedral Area Historic District (Boundary Increase).

Criteria Consideratons (explanation, if necessary)

Statement of Significance Summary Paragraph (provide a summary paragraph that includes level of significance and applicable criteria)

The contributing properties along the 100 block of East Avenue B meet Criteria A for Community Planning and Development and Criteria C for Architecture as defined in the original 1980 nomination and the 1997 Boundary Increase. Additional information regarding the Neil O. Churchill House (#69) and the Ervin H.L. Vesperman House (#49) is also included.

Narrative Statement of Significance (provide at least one paragraph for each area of significance)

The recently surveyed properties at 104, 106, 112, 115, 116, 120 Avenue B East, and 523 North First Street are all part of the early Northern Pacific Addition in the heart of Bismarck and share the residential planning of the Cathedral area. Each of the architectural styles is also found within the listed properties of the district.

Consistent with the 1997 Boundary Increase, these properties were built from 1910 to 1934 with 4 of the 7 residences built during the 1920s, corresponding with a 56% population growth of the town of Bismarck. The blend of architectural styles and social eras is also seen along this street with the 2-story Foursquares and Gable front as immediate neighbors to one-story bungalows and a variation of a Spanish Revival.

Recent research by Erik Sakariassen has provided the following information about Neil O. Churchill, a Bismarck Mayor and automobile dealer who lived at both 618 North Mandan Street (#69) and 410 Avenue B West (#49). "In the 1930s, Churchill owned and managed a racially-integrated Bismarck semi-pro baseball team, more than a decade before Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in the Major Leagues. Churchill fielded start players from the Negro Leagues, including Quincy Trouppe, Ted 'Double Duty' Radcliffe, and future Hall of Fame pitcher, Satchel Paige. In 1935, the team claimed the semi-pro national championship title."<sup>ii</sup>

Verbal Boundary Description (describe the boundaries of the property)

From the 1997 boundary, the addition begins on the eastern side of North First Street with residence number 523. This property is the immediate neighbor to the north of listed property 519 North First Street. The boundary extends east from North First Street to include 115 Avenue B East and then goes northeast to North Second Street. The property at 120 Avenue B East is on the northwest corner of this intersection and the boundary goes north to this residence's property line before returning west to include 116, 112, 106, and 104 Avenue B East. After 104, the boundary moves south to exclude the ineligible property at 100 Avenue B East and reconnects with the 1997 boundary along North First Street.

See accompanying sketch map.

Boundary Justification (explain why the boundaries were selected)

The increased boundaries include the land associated with the contributing resources along the 100 block of East Avenue B that fit the period of significance and retain integrity. Noncontributing resources were excluded.
