Calvin Coolidge Homestead, Plymouth, Vermont

Now recognized by the National Park Service as a Registered National Historic Landmark, this eight-room Cape Cod was the boyhood home of President Calvin Coolidge. Presented to the State of Vermont by John Coolidge, son of the late President, in 1957, it is maintained as an Historic House Museum by the Vermont Board of Historic Sites. The 30th President, who was born in a house across the street, lived here from the age of four until he left home to attend prep school at the age of 15.
