

B-24 bombers on Midway preparing for a raid on Japanese-held Wake Island. December 1942.

Courtesy National Archives

The final hours of USS Yorktown, Battle of Midway, June 1942.

Courtesy National Archives

Japanese cruiser Mikuma which sank June 6, 1942, Battle of Midway.
An American dive bomber crashed on the after gun turret.

Courtesy National Archives

Japanese planes destroyed the seaplane hangar, Sand Island.
Battle of Midway, June 1942.

Courtesy National Archives

Emplacement for a 3-inch naval gun, Sand Island. This battery is the best preserved of those that defended Midway in June 1942.

Photo by E. N. Thompson

April 1986

Battery D, 3-inch gun emplacement, Sand Island, Midway.
This battery was installed just before the Japanese attack,
June 1942. Battle of Midway.

Bolts for the carriage of a 3-inch naval gun, Sand Island,
Midway.

Photo by E. N. Thompson

April 1986

One of several surviving ammunition magazines that serviced the gun batteries during the Battle of Midway, June 1942.

MAGAZINE #7125 FROM REAR, 3-INCH AA BATTERY
SAND ISLAND
MIDWAY

APRIL 1986 THOMPSON

PILLBOX OR FIRE CONTROL STATION ?
ADJACENT TO 3-INCH AA BATTERY
SAND ISLAND
MIDWAY

APRIL 1936

THOMPSON

BOLTS FOR BASE PLATES INSIDE AN EMPLACEMENT
FOR THE 3-INCH NAVAL BATTERY.
SAND ISLAND
MIDWAY

APRIL 1986 THOMPSON

EMPLACEMENT FOR THE 3-INCH NAVAL GUN
NOTE THE READY MAGAZINES
SAND ISLAND
MIDWAY

APRIL 1986 THOMPSON

INCOMPLETE 3" AA GVN EMPLACEMENT, BATTERY D.
NOTE THE REINFORCING RODS IN FOREGROUND.

SAND ISLAND
MIDWAY

APRIL 1986

THOMPSON

PRE-BATTLE MAGAZINE #7125 FOR 3-INCH AA
BATTERY.

SAND ISLAND 57 M3 BATTERY
MIDWAY

APRIL 1986 THOMPSON