Homesite of John H. Marks

April 25, 1864

The battle of Marks Mill was fought one mile from our home. I saw them shoot down the driver of the first wagon in front of our house.

Our house was a temporary hospital, and I can see now the wounded and the dying lying on our porch...and in the house.

General Sherman was right about war...it is hell.

Martha H. Marks

In memory of the buildings of this homestead which were destroyed by a band of guerrillas.
