DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

• • • • • The Fernandina Beach home built by Mr. E. W. Bailey in 1895 is a Victorian structure of irregular plan. Projecting from both corners of the main facade are three-story turreted bays. The house is constructed of yellow heart pine and it rests on brick piers. Porches on the south and east sides are balustraded and covered with wide eaved roofs. Fish-scale shingles fill the principal gables, the front dormer and decorate the mid-section of the larger turret. There is decorative corbelling under the turret eaves. All windows with the exception of those filled with stained glass are double-hung sash. These windows are shuttered on the outside with "rolling slat blinds" and the bays are shuttered on the inside.

The house has a pitched roof of very steep pitch. In addition, there is a cross gable at the rear which runs north and south. A brick panelled chimney is located nearly at the crest of the roof.

The interior of the house has a wide hall located to the left of center. This hall and the dining room are wainscoted to the height of three feet. In the dining room also is located the most beautiful of the stained glass windows in the house. As per the architects' specifications "all apartments are fitted with clear bright yellow pine for natural finish."

The Bailey House is being nominated to the National Register on the basis of its architectural criteria. Located as it is in a town which flourished in the late 1800's and consequently had many fine Victorian residences, it is among the finest of those structures still standing. In addition to this, the architect's specifications provide detailed information about the house. The house is the work of the architectural firm of George Barber and Associates of Knoxville, Tennessee. Barber was the designer of at least one other extremely fine residence in North Florida. It is located in Lake City, and dates from approximately the same period.

The Bailey House is a good example of late Victorian architecture in one of its simplest forms and of those homes remaining in Fernandina, it is one of the finest architecturally.
