DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Arctic Building, occupying a site at the corner of Third Avenue and Cherry Street in Seattle, rises eight stories above a ground level of retail shops to an ornate terra cotta roof cornice. The building also has a penthouse office which is not original. When the building opened, this was the location of a roof garden enjoyed by members of the Arctic Club.

Before the design for this office building was fully determined, the developer, Mr. James Moses of New York City, entered into a lease with the Arctic Club, agreeing to provide suitable quarters for their organization. The decorative theme of the new building became indicative of the name of the organization, particularly the adoption of walrus heads to adorn the piers at the third story level and also, as symbolic of the Arctic region, the polar bear placed over the Third Avenue entrance (no longer visible due to modernization).

The Arctic Building, like the Smith Tower, Dexter Horton, and Frederick and Nelson Buildings, pioneered the use of light glazed terra cotta panels over a reinforced concrete or structural steel frame. Terra cotta facades were extremely popular and widely used in downtown Seattle for many years because their bright, reflective quality and ease of maintenance countered the grayness of Northwest winters. However, the designers of the Arctic Building went a step further than the designers of other terra cotta buildings by adding a significant amount of color to the facade. They created one of the finest examples of multi-colored matte glaze terra cotta work in the city and, quite probably, in the Northwest.

The major portion of the facade is a cream white terra cotta with submarine blue and orange-brown accents (now faded). The colored portions are particularly noticeable along the richly adorned top story and main cornice. The club's entrance walls and ceiling on Cherry Street are also richly ornamented in cream-colored terra cotta.

The main corridors of the floors which house office space are finished in selected Alaska marble. The former club lobby is finished in imitation Caen stone, and decorative plaster work adorns the columns on the main floor. Beautiful hardwood finishes on these columns, as well as panelling and wainscoting in the former library and lounge, create a harmonious effect throughout the club rooms. The fireplace in the lounge has a mantel faced in "faience tile" depicting Lake Washington and Mount Rainier.

The formal dining room was the focal point of the club. It is a room about sixty feet square surmounted by a tinted glass dome. The walls and ceiling were originally highly ornamented with stucco which had been artistically frescoed. The cornices, appropriately enough, depict fruits and vegetables. Beautiful crystal chandeliers were especially designed for the room, and concealed lighting combined with them to provide pleasing effects in the evening. The dining room, although converted into offices by the Seattle Department of Community Development, still contains its stained glass panels and chandeliers and remains a unique and ambiance-filled feature of Seattle's gracious past. The Arctic Glub also originally boasted a ladies' tea room, private dining rooms, billiard and card rooms, bowling alley, barber shop, and roof garden - - all made into office space in recent years.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

In addition to its considerable architectural merit, the Arctic Building represents one of Seattle's more colorful early twentieth century social inistitutions. Its site has hosted a variety of public uses and its architect was one of the foremost designers in the region.

The site was originally the property of Judge Joseph R. Lewis, Chief Justice of Washington Territory and a direct descendant of Betty Washington, sister of George Washington. The Lewis house, built there shortly after his arrival in Seattle in 1875, was considered one of the finest in the city. It was torn down in 1892 for the erection of the Seattle Theatre. This 1300 seat house was built from designs by Saunders and Lawton adjacent to the recently completed Rainier Club. It became a gala gathering spot for Seattle's elite, presenting the best in American and foreign theatre. The Rainier Club's first home was also the focus of social life for Seattle's foremost businessmen. Both buildings were torn down in 1916 for the new Arctic Club.

The Arctic club, originally located in the Morrison Hotel, provided an exclusive social community for those Seattlites who had returned from the Alaska Gold Rush with money in their pockets and a repertoire of stories to tell about their adventures in the Yukon. In its dining rooms and lounges many of Seattle's wealthy and socially prominent citizens planned strategies and dreamed projects which turned the city into a major west coast metropolis. In recent years, a number of city departments, including the Department of Community Development, have been housed in the Arctic Building.

A. Warren Gould, architect, was responsible for many of the finest commercial buildings in downtown Seattle. Among them are the County-City Building, the American Savings Bank and adjoining Empire Building (2nd Avenue and Madison), the YWCA, and the Standard Furniture Company (2nd and Pine). In addition, he designed buildings in Vancouver B.C., Aberdeen, and Tacoma, Washington. He also was responsible for many private residences throughout the Northwest. Gould was born in Nova Scotia in 1872. He studied architecture at MIT and was designer of numerous residential and commercial projects in the Boston area prior to coming to Seattle in 1904. In addition to his architectural work, Gould originated the municipal plans amendment to the city charter, and was responsible for the creation of the Municipal Plans Commission. In 1917, he was elected the president of the Washington State Society of Architects and was appointed in 1919 a member of the state architect's examining board.
