19. semi-octagonal reference alcove (balanced on the other side by an office). The interior is in the medievalizing Craftsman mode--dark woodwork and light walls--not atypical for small libraries, but is much more elaborate and stylish than is usually the case. The openings connecting the different spaces are wide and reach almost to the ceiling. Their frames are a curious compromise between the rectilinear and the arched. Wall surfaces are divided into panels by dark wood strips.
