

Watford March 8th

Dear Brother and Sister

We received Mary's very acceptable letter today and were glad to hear from Syracuse. Mother said she nearly died for joy it was such a nice letter and so well seasoned with such good feeling & sympathy. But said she hoped that my letter did not spoil her visit. We are very glad (at least) that we shall see them so soon has she visited Stephen Smith's lot and do they not live in very handsome style? I commenced going to school Third Day all goes on as usual only we have not quite so many scholars as we had last quarter, and we have a play-house in the street. But this is nothing, Poor the Georgie "Lay's Body" has not been found yet is it not dreadful Bodies within a week have lost & recovered, they had Class-vaunts Yesterday. To find him, they both agreed in their description of him, ^{I heard} it was thus, One hand raised & hat on and one skate gone, he was much bloated, one said he was bought in a spike of the old bridge, which was torn down, the other he was by an Orchard and a high Bank and that they had turned him over, but tonight he was not found, Aunt Margaret was down here today had a letter from James Betts he wished to be remembered to Richard. also Auntie, Maria's Grand Mother was buried today at two o'clock she died second day morning, as it is late I must close so I

Bye from your very aff sister Sarah

P.S, Mother is quite smart, sends her love, also mine to all - Father does not wish me to get any Doll. for Annie while there

Richard Hunt
Care of Borroughs Phil
Syracuse
New

